In addition to performing the large scale choral works and in particular the seldom-heard works of mainstream composers, and being in demand by promoters for "one-off" events, the City of Glasgow Chorus continues to give a series of church concerts each season with organ accompaniment. These concerts, entitled Choral Classics, feature the well-known choruses from popular oratorios as well as standalone choral works. The popularity of these concerts led to recordings of choral favourites in 1993 and 1997.

For this new recording, the Chorus travelled to Dundee to take advantage of the Caird Hall's wonderful acoustic and its Harrison and Harrison organ – believed to be one of the finest in the country.
